Lag B'omer Festival

Lag B'Omer is an annual Jewish festival observed during the Hebrew month of Iyar.

It is celebrated on the 33rd day of the Omer, the 49-day period between Passover and Shavuot.

Lag B'Omer is the only day during the 49-day period when celebration is permitted.

Hence, it is common for Jews to schedule weddings on this day every year.

Young boys, who have reached the age of three, are also traditionally brought here for their first hair cut.

To mark the occasion, ultra-Orthodox Jewish pilgrims make their way to the base of Mount Meron every year, to pay their respects to Rabbi Shimon Bar Yochai, a second century sage and mystic, who is believed to have died on this day.

The Rabbi's tomb is a much revered holy site in Israel

IOC's RULE 50

Olympic-bound athletes won't be allowed to protest on the field, on podiums, and during ceremonies.

About:

The decision, taken on the back of the International Olympic Committee's (IOC's) Rule 50, has triggered a fresh round of debate over athletes' right to expression. The IOC's Rule 50 forbids any kind of "demonstration or political, religious or racial propaganda" at venues and any other Olympic area.

However, following the death of George Floyd in the USA last May, which triggered anti-racism protests and gave a boost to the Black Lives Matter movement, the Olympic body came under pressure to relax the rule so that athletes could express themselves freely during the Games.

Subsequently, the IOC's Athletes Commission started a consultation process in June last year, took views from 3,547 athletes before last week, it was recommended that the rule should be maintained.
